Re: Policy to ensure confidentiality of subscriber's customer proprietary network information

- Access to call records may not be achieved by any online methods. The computer containing customer information has no physical connection to the internet.
- A customer initiated telephone call is handled by a call back to that customer using the telephone number on record for that particular client.
- The customer may visit our office and provide valid photo id. This information will be compared to account information in our database.
- Call details are mailed only to the customer's address of record.
- Any change of customer information is verified by valid photo id, call back at telephone number of record, or mailed to customer's address of record.
- No media containing customer information may be removed from the premise of Skyline Communications.

As Owner and Operator of Skyline Communications, I, Charles W. Culver, have personal knowledge that the above procedures are in place and are adhered to daily.
